Killarney Homes wins national HIA Awards

The 2014 HIA GreenSmart Spec Home award has been won by Northern Territory builder Killarney Homes at the national HIA GreenSmart Awards.

The GreenSmart Awards, announced today, recognise the best in environmentally-responsible housing. HIA GreenSmart Spec Home is partnered by Bupa HIA Health Plan.

Killarney Homes picked up a further three HIA GreenSmart Awards. They received a highly commended award in the GreenSmart Display Home category and were finalists in the GreenSmart Project Home category. Michael Moriarty of Killarney Homes was also named a finalist in the HIA GreenSmart Professional category.

For their winning Spec Home, the judges commented, "The striking aspect of this home is its distinct architectural character, arising from an appropriate response to Darwin's seasons.

"The home revives the architecture of the region with its deep shading, generous outdoor living areas, raised floor and breezy spaces.

"The design and construction not only promotes energy efficiency but also comfort and health for its occupants," said the judges.

In congratulating Killarney Homes, HIA Managing Director Shane Goodwin said the HIA GreenSmart Awards set the benchmark in progressive sustainable building techniques and products.

"Consumer demand for practical, affordable and durable environmental solutions for residential housing is ever growing; HIA is dedicated to recognising excellence in the field of environmental construction and design." Mr Goodwin said.

"The HIA GreenSmart program is a voluntary initiative and one our members can incorporate into their building practices. The GreenSmart Awards recognise the high standards and excellence among these practitioners," Mr Goodwin said.
